Cookies

What is a cookie?

A cookie, also known as a browser cookie, is a text file containing small amounts of information which a server may download to your computer hard drive, tablet or mobile device when you visit a website or use an app.

Cookies do not typically contain any information that personally identifies a user, but personal information that I store about you may be linked to the information stored in and obtained from cookies.

Cookies may be either 'persistent' cookies or 'session' cookies. A persistent cookie will be stored on the web browser and will remain valid until its set expiry date, unless detected by the user before the expiry date. A session cookie, on the other hand, will expire at the end of the user session, when the web browser is closed.

First party and third party cookies

Cookies can be set and controlled by the operator of the website which the user is browsing (known as a 'first party cookie') or a third party such as Facebook, for example to display advertisements and social sharing features, (known as a 'third party cookie').

Cookies used by Intuitive Giraffe

The only cookies in use on the Intuitive Giraffe website are for Google Analytics. Google Analytics is a web analytics tool that helps website owners understand how visitors engage with their website. Google Analytics customers can view a variety of reports about how visitors interact with their website so that they can improve it.

Like many services, Google Analytics uses first-party cookies to track visitor interactions as in my case, where they are used to collect information about how visitors use my site. I then use the information to compile reports and to help me improve the website.

Cookies contain information that is transferred to your computer's hard drive. These cookies are used to store information, such as the time that the current visit occurred, whether the visitor has been to the site before and what site referred the visitor to the web page.

Google Analytics collects information anonymously. It reports website trends without identifying individual visitors.

How can you control the use of cookies?

You can opt out of Google Analytics without affecting how you visit the Intuitive Giraffe website – for more information on opting out of being tracked by Google Analytics across all websites you use, visit this Google page.

Sharing of data from cookies

I may disclose data collected from third party cookies cookies, such as visitor trends, to third parties, in an anonymous form, for research and statistical purposes, and to help me optimise my website.
